DIVORCE SETTLEMENTS WITHOUT GOING TO COURT

COLLABORATIVE LAW AND MEDIATION

Consideration of the legal, financial, emotional and relational elements of a divorce. Interest based negotiation. Neutral coaches, child specialists, financial analysts and mediator as needed. Collaborative attorneys who coach, advise, encourage and model good negotiation skills. Prepare the families for ongoing relationships as co-parents and for ongoing extended family bonds. Self-determination, building strength and skills for future negotiation as new issues arise post-divorce. Child centered and client centered. A new way of lawyering and resolving family matters outside of court, around a table with lawyers as allies, not adversaries.

Financial Analysis:

Certified Divorce Financial Analyst and certified in Family Law Software. This software enables efficient analysis of financial options with tax adjustments and projections for the future.

Legal Consultation and Coaching:

Advise people who are in mediation. Coach and help parties prepare to represent themselves in negotiation. To bring each person up to speed with financial literacy, reality and preparation to offer and evaluate different settlement options.

Wevorce:

A technology based on- line mediation that involves relationship and financial experts and the newest negotiation concepts, including a strong foundation building module and a set number of meetings to consider parenting plan and financial issues, and includes drafting of documents - all with flat fee pricing. See: www.wevorce.com

Document Drafting and Review:
